

PolicyLab Releases New Video About Our Work and Team

Date:

Wednesday, January 03, 2018

2018 is here, which means that PolicyLab has been around for 10 years! We're kicking off a year of celebration with a brand new video that tells our story and the type of research we've been doing for the past decade. You'll hear about how we've made a difference in our community from senior leadership and research staff, as well as hear from other key stakeholders we've worked with over the years. With the obstacles to children and family health we've all experienced in recent months, PolicyLab is more committed than ever in our 10th anniversary year to turn our research into actionable policy solutions and continue working to be a strong voice for children and adolescents. Watch the video below!
