Children's Hospital of Philadelphia
PolicyLab

Coping Style may Contribute to Stress in Parents of Preemies

PolicyLab's Dr. Marsha Gerdes is interviewed about a new research study that found parents might stay calmer if they had support in figuring out ways to deal with the behavioral challenges of preemies.

Source:

Reuters

Visit Link