

Most Kids on Public Coverage Have Parents Who Work for Big Companies, New Study Finds

Date:

Wednesday, Jul 03, 2019

PolicyLab researcher Doug Strane, MPH, was quoted in an article on his new national study that found that more working families in the U.S. rely on public insurance for their kids' coverage.

Source:

[Children's Health Matters
Visit Link](#)