Children's Hospital of Philadelphia
PolicyLab

Studies: Educate Parents on How Secondhand Smoke Harms Children

A study led by PolicyLab researcher Brian Jenssen, MD, MSHP, which found that parent smokers would be more likely to quit if messages about cessation included information about the harm to children, was featured in an article.

Source:

AAP News

Visit Link