PolicyLab Launches Inaugural Annual Impact Report

Date:

Tuesday, June 08, 2021

PolicyLab is excited to share our first annual Impact Report, which highlights how our center took an evidence-to-action approach to improve children's health and well-being during the past year.

Throughout this difficult year of navigating the COVID-19 pandemic, our team of researchers and policy and communications professionals came together to conduct and disseminate research that was responsive to the moment, implementing programs to address families' needs and providing policy support to leaders nationwide. Within the report, you can explore examples of this work across research, programs and policy and see how evidence can have a true impact on policy and programs. Collaborating with our Children's Hospital of Philadelphia colleagues, partners, funders and the local community has been vital in these efforts, and we look forward to continued work together.
