

Naomi Pressman MS, RD

Clinical Research Program Manager

- facebook
- twitter
- linkedin

- Print Page
- Email Page

Naomi Pressman (she/her) is a clinical research program manager at PolicyLab at Children's Hospital of Philadelphia (CHOP) and in the Craig Dalsimer Division of Adolescent Medicine at CHOP. Naomi currently supports Dr. Sarah Wood's research on improving access to sexual health services and prevention of HIV and STIs in adolescents.

Prior to joining PolicyLab, Naomi was a member of CHOP's Inflammatory Bowel Disease (IBD) Center, researching dietary interventions and complementary and alternative medicine interventions for patients with IBD, and the correlation of viral exposures with increases in IBD symptoms. In addition, Naomi's previous work includes facilitating research on infant feeding and early growth and development at Philadelphia's Monell Chemical Senses Center.

Before her career in clinical research, Naomi was a professional dancer and pilates instructor. She subsequently earned a Master of Science in Nutrition at Drexel University and completed her dietetic internship at Stony Brook University Hospital.

Naomi Pressman
MS, RD
Email: pressmann@chop.edu

Research Interests

Sexual & Reproductive Health
Equitable Access to Services
Health Needs in Adolescence
Evidence-based Prevention, Screening & Treatment
Health Care Delivery & Quality
Minority & Immigrant Communities

Recent Blog Posts