Alexis Libert (she/her) is an affiliate trainee at PolicyLab at Children's Hospital of Philadelphia (CHOP), a fourth-year psychology doctoral student, and a graduate research fellow within the Timko Research Group (TRG) at CHOP. Alexis received a bachelor's degree in psychology with a concentration in addictions. Presently, she is working toward completion of a counseling psychology PsyD at Felician University. Her research and clinical interests focus on the development, dissemination, and delivery of more accessible and equitable mental health treatment.

Alexis is a current clinical extern at the Substance Abuse Residential Rehabilitation Treatment Program (SARRTP) within VA New Jersey Healthcare System (VANJHS), and a former extern in the Behavioral Health Research Lab (BHRL) within the War Related Illness and Injury Study Center (WRIISC), also housed within VANJHS. Alexis joined TRG on an external graduate research fellowship to support her interest in clinical research in the context of eating disorders, and has since focused her research efforts on accessibility and implementation.
